

Look For The Good

© Kate Callahan 2017

Everywhere a wall stands bare between your fear and your life. Well you know a wall like you know your pride. If we look for the good we'll get on the other side

When you're broken, your heart is frozen, lift your head, life your eyes. See the sun & feel its size.

If we look for the good we'll get on the other side

You got fear, you got a mess, you got a fight And embarrassment You got all the time inside to see things right And embrace it.

All this ground beneath your feet, grows for good, grows for life Let nature speak, go ahead confide. If we look for the good we'll get on the other side

And the crumbling of a thousand walls is by design And the crumbling of a thousand walls is by design

Open, love, embrace, invite, involve, inspire, it's time

Love, Love, Love

Open, love, embrace, invite, involve, inspire, it's time
